CITY OF MONTEREY PARK CALIFORNIA

To the People of Monterey Park:

It is our intention in producing this publication that it be as complete, useful, and informative as possible for all Monterey Park citizens. It is aimed, therefore, at both the homeowner and the apartment dweller; the schoolchild as well as the senior citizen; the newcomer and the long-time resident; the businessman and the potential investor. Found within these pages are the telephone numbers, addresses, and information that will answer virtually any question or request you may have concerning the City and its services. At the very least, you will have a good idea whom to call.

I strongly recommend you keep this book handy and that you tell us if you have any suggestions on improving future City brochures. Our purpose is to facilitate a quick response to your questions, to make City government more approachable, and to enhance your life in the City of Monterey Park.

Very truly yours,

MAYOR, CITY OF MONTEREY PARK

CITY OF MONTEREY PARK ORGANIZATION CHART

City Seal

Monterey Park's City Seal was adopted in 1966 and its design represents the Cascades, a city landmark; the bear, representing the State of California; and a shield which served as the city's original incorporation seal with the date of incorporation. The Cascades (waterfalls) were a cornerstone of a futuristic housing development in 1929 which was cut short by the Depression.

A Capsule History

The city now called Monterey Park was, in the early 1800's, part of the Mission San Gabriel de Arcangel and later the Rancho San Antonio. The area first received a separate identity when Allesandro Repetto purchased 5,000 acres of the rancho and built his home, the first in Monterey Park.

Some years later, Richard Garvey, a mail rider for the U.S. Army who travelled a route that now bears his name, settled down in the Kings Hills. In 1906 Ramona Acres was built, the first subdivision of the area. Nine years later the residents initiated action to become a city when the cities of Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra proposed to put a large sewage treatment facility in the area.

The community incorporated into a city in 1916 and immediately outlawed sewage reduction plants within its boundaries.

Monterey Park took its name from an old government map that showed the wooded hills of the area as Monterey Hills (Monterey in Spanish means Kings Hills).

Four years after becoming a city, a large southern section broke away and became what is now known as the City of Montebello.

Throughout the 20's, as population increased, the chance that a large pool of oil sat beneath Monterey Park's hills caused the drilling of several ultimately dry wells.

The City of Monterey Park is governed under the City Council - Manager form of government, a concept presented in 1792 by George Washington and a product of a reform movement which occurred at the turn of the century. It follows a model of corporation management in which the citizens are stockholders, the city council is the board of directors and the city manager the administrator to carry out policies. It was adopted by the voters of this city in 1948.

Role of the five - member City Council, elected at large, is legislative. The council hires the city manager as an administrator and a city attorney, who advises the council and departments on legal matters. A city treasurer and city clerk are elected by the people.

The city has eight departments organized on a functional basis to provide essential public services. Each department is headed by an experienced professional to carry out the various responsibilities.

Elections

Elections are held every even - numbered year. The city clerk, 573-1211, provides election information and voters may register at Fire Station 1, 300 W. Newmark Ave., 573-1335, Chamber of Commerce, 163 W. Garvey, 280-3864

Commissions

Citizens may apply for any advisory commission throughout the year at the City Manager's office. Applicants are screened by the city council and selected applicants are interviewed when openings occur.

Meeting the people's needs

PROPOSED new city hall on Atlantic

Commercial and industrial inhabitants of Monterey Park have special needs and the Monterey Park Chamber of Commerce is an organization dedicated to helping fulfill those needs.

The Chamber advises the city council on business - related issues, provides information on the city to new residents and is dedicated to encouraging the city's commercial and industrial growth to make Monterey Park a better place in which to live.

Monterey Park's City Hall, constructed in the late 40's, is the key area in a civic center complex that includes the Fire and Police Department buildings, a community center and spacious Barnes Park that gives citizens a convenient one-stop location where they can conduct city business.

Monterey Park is a growing city and its needs are likewise growing. Because of this, a redevelopment plan will see the city transform the Ameron building on Atlantic Blvd. into a new, modern city hall complex while the current civic center is still maintained for fire, police and recreational needs of the community.

MONTEREY PARK A beautiful place to live

The shimmering waters of the Cascades are symbolic of the beautiful lifestyle adopted by residents of Monterey Park who live in a variety of homes that make up this suburban community.

Longtime residences provide a large, and uniquely beautiful, base for Monterey Park in the central portion of the city. Old-style architecture and sturdy construction are their dominant features.

Hilltop living has also become popular in both the eastern and western portion of the city. There, spacious multi-story homes have been built, offering a panoramic view.

Condominiums and townhomes offer a new, relaxing mode of living. These multi-density developments offer the advantages of ownership along with the carefree style of apartment living in a modern setting.

Growing with the future

AMERON HEADQUARTERS SITE

Growth and Future --- two words which provide the key to the industrial well-being of Monterey Park.

Although already possessing many fine industrial sections which house a great variety of some of the biggest companies in California, Monterey Park continues to look towards a future of strong industrial development which will help this city to achieve the balanced community which it is trying to become.

Monterey Park's industrial potential is easily seen in the Monterey Pass Road area, where manufacturers, warehousers, shipping and other industrial - type businesses have banded together to form a clean and busy area employing many local residents.

McCaslin Park on Potrero Grande showcases a new concept in industrial planning --- the industrial park, which combines the necessary space and ideal location needed by businesses with the beauty of a planned development that is pleasing to the eyes of passerbys.

POTRERO GRANDE POTENTIAL

The proposed Ameron headquarters near the San Bernardino Freeway, along with the prime land that surrounds it, signals the start of a new cooperative effort with the city under the Community Redevelopment Agency to provide a top industrial base.

Improved freeway access is also opening up such areas as Potrero Grande and other southern areas for development - all of which means Monterey Park will soon come to realize its goals of growth in the very near future.

Monterey Park's many service clubs and organizations are unique – uniquely busy serving the city's needs while also pulling together to form a strong organization that resulted in a common meeting place, the Service Clubhouse.

Built in the 1940's, the clubhouse was the result of a cooperative effort on the part of many clubs in town to establish a common meeting place that could be used by all clubs, as well as by the community.

They succeeded well beyond their original expectations. The Service Clubhouse is a beehive of activity throughout the week and also on the weekends. In addition to housing the many club meetings, it is also the scene of fundraising breakfasts and dinners held by the clubs in addition to club social activities.

It is a perfect example of one of the city's best assets -- the ability of its citizens to work together for the good of everyone.

A shuffleboard disc sails across court for 10 points, a woman embroiders some handiwork to be given to local school children, a man presents a proposal for a new city program that could result in senior housing. A common scene? It certainly is for Monterey Park's busy senior citizens.

Senior power has come to this city, and it has manifested itself in many innovative programs beneficial not only to the seniors themselves but to the community as a whole.

Monterey Park seniors are a busy group of people and continue to contribute to the community long after their "working" days are over. Because of this, the city has investigated many areas for projects to aid the seniors and have planned many such programs for the future.

Patrons' Page

The businesses listed at the bottom of each page of this book, along with the many businesses listed on this page, provided a large portion of the funds needed to publish this informational booklet. The City of Monterey Park and the Monterey Park Chamber of Commerce thank these businesses for their interest, which enabled us to show the residents of Monterey Park that "This is Your City."
